

ENGINE CAN DO 150 MILES IN 60 MINUTES

Agent of Pennsylvania Railroad Negotiates for Right to Use the Invention Here

London, Nov. 13.—Louis Brennan, inventor of the famous torpedo, the only war secret ever successfully guarded by England, gave a practical demonstration today at New Brompton of his gyroscope mono railroad. It was an enormous success, its hurried demonstration being due to a desire to counteract a reported Berlin exhibition of an alleged infringement.

A circular track, one-eighth of a mile with tangent spurs, was utilized. The track nestles back in the historic old arsenal at Gillingham, where Mr. Micawber went to "look over the situation" after his decision to enter the coal business, while a spur runs down to the British channel, where "sullen warships swing with the tide." The car shown was forty feet long and ten feet wide. It resembles an American flatcar, with a huge hood built up on the front end.

In the hood were two gyroscopes capable of 3,000 revolutions a minute, and on each side projected huge radiators. Two electric engines were used, one of 80 and the other of 20 horse power. The car crates its own electricity through petrol. The speed attained today was seven miles an hour, as the small engine only was used, due to the small track. A fully equipped car can run 150 miles an hour and carry its own fuel for three hours. The car runs on four wheels set tandem.

A roadway for this monorail can be laid at the rate of thirty miles a day in the wildest country. A secret agent of the Pennsylvania railroad is negotiating with Mr. Brennan for the right to build an experimental line between Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

EXPLAINED

"I fail to understand your American joke about the darkey's con trap—set to catch them coming and going," remarked the Little Brown Man to his friend from over the sea.

"Well, I'll explain," replied the friend from over seas. "It's something like this—see that newly arrived ship?"

"Yes, I see it."

"In the cabins are a dozen missionaries sent to enlighten you, and in the hold a cargo of rum to befuddle you. I hope I have made it clear."

Although a sadly benighted heathen, the Little Brown Man had to admit that the explanation was very lucid—and convincing.

INVENTS QUADRUPLEX SYSTEM

Stockbridge, Mass., Nov. 14.—Stephen D. Field, a nephew of Cyrus West Field, who laid first Atlantic cable, has perfected an instrument in his laboratory here by the use of which four messages can be sent over a single cable simultaneously.

The device is now being used successfully on the cable between Key West, Fla., and Havana, Cuba, and proved serviceable during the recent severe storm. Heretofore it has been possible to send only one message at a time over a cable.

The horses that were recently stolen from Simon Baumgartner were found tied along the side of the road in Dade county Tuesday. Mr. Baumgartner was notified and he left that evening to get them, returning Thursday evening. The identity of the thieves remains unknown.—Peirce City Journal.

TWO BIG MEETINGS OF POULTRY RAISERS

The Missouri State Show at St. Louis Dec. 6-11, and the State Poultry Institute at Columbia Dec. 29-30

The State Poultry Board has arranged for two of the greatest gatherings of farmers and poultry raisers ever held in Missouri if not in the entire United States.

The State Poultry Institute will be held at Columbia in the new State Agriculture College, December 29-30, during Farmer's Week. Three noted poultry lecturers and judges have been engaged to conduct the institute and give practical demonstrations. Dr. A. A. Brigham, principal of the School of Agriculture at Brookings, S. D.; Rolla C. Lawry, professor of Poultry Husbandry in Cornell University; and D. E. Hale, a noted judge and writer will each be present to instruct the farmers and poultry raisers in all practical questions pertaining to foods, feeding, incubation, brooding, breeding, caponizing, judging and general poultry and egg farming, both upon the farm and as a special business. Noted speakers for all branches of agriculture, and the dedication of the new agricultural building on December 31st. Don't miss this meeting. It's a years course in poultry husbandry boiled down into two days.

A QUIET WEDDING

There was a quiet wedding at the home of the bride near Phelps last Thursday November 11th, when Rev. T. M. Holcomb and Miss Zora White were united in marriage by Rev. M. L. Schooley. Rev. T. M. Holcomb is the Free Methodist pastor on the Phelps and Monett circuit. He has made his home the past year at D. P. Arnold's rear Monett. During this time he has won many friends and the longer he is known the better he becomes esteemed. The bride is one well known for her beautiful character and Christian piety. For the present they will make their home near Phelps. x x x.

BE GOOD TO HUBBY

A learned physician says that no woman who wishes to remain beautiful will speak a cross word to her husband. This really ought to be printed in larger type.—Buffalo Record.

In an interview in Kansas City with a Post reporter, United States Senator R. L. Owen, declared that the bank guarantee law in Oklahoma had proven to be an unqualified success, that its adoption had resulted in an increase in deposits for the state banks of over 100 per cent. Continuing Senator Owen said: "The guaranty law of Oklahoma does away with reckless banking. By its provisions the state banks of Oklahoma are forbidden to make loans for above 10 per cent or to pay over 3 per cent for short time deposits and 1 per cent for long time deposits. As the reckless banker depends on paying big per cent for deposits and charging big per cents for unsafe loans it can be seen what the effect of this law is. I am strongly in favor of it as a national law and I would have succeeded in having it passed by the last congress were it not for the influence of certain powerful New York interests who saw in it the curtailment of that great influence which has allowed them to usurp the financial strength of the country."

A young man fell into a state of coma, but recovered before his friends had buried him. One of them asked what it felt like to be dead.

"Dead!" He exclaimed. I wasn't dead. And I know I wasn't, because my feet were cold and I was hungry."

"But how did that make you sure?"

"Well, I knew that if I were in heaven I shouldn't be hungry, and if I was in the other place my feet wouldn't be cold."

RESOLUTIONS

We the members of White Lily Lodge No. 3 Loyal Star, tender our heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. M. J. Hall in the loss of her brother, N. D. Green (deceased) who on Thursday Nov. 11th was accidentally killed 4 miles west of Aurora leaving a wife and three children to mourn the loss of a faithful and loving husband and a kind and affectionate father.

We would commend the friends to a loving God, who alone can comfort in time of grief.

Miss Berenice Downs returned Monday from a visit at Springfield.
S. C. Mills visited his daughter, Mrs. Mitchell at Springfield Sunday.

HUNTING WITHOUT PERMISSION

If you wish to hunt on another man's land, why do you not, as a gentleman should, go to the owner and ask his or her permission? This way some have of sneaking in like a darned thief and shooting game where you are not wanted is not any better morally than stealing corn from another man's crib.

The boy who will violate the law in this way, though he may be otherwise a passable fellow, is not on the right road to make a good, desirable citizen. He may change and be all right after while, but he lacks a long shot of being all right while he is in this sneaking, trespassing business. And if he follows up this habit of taking that which does not belong to him, his nose will soon be pointed straight towards the penitentiary.

We dislike to write these harsh words, but as we have started out on this line we will add that the boy who persists in violating the law in this or in any other manner, has all the elements of which to make a thief and a robber of himself.

'Boys! Take the advice of one who knows and make a huge effort to grow up and stand in your community as gentleman. It is just as easy and much more pleasant to be a gentleman than it is to be a sneak. Besides it comes mighty handy, sometimes, to have good people for your friends. DON'T BE A SNEAK.—Stella Record.

When you hear a man sneering at the local paper because it is not as big, cheap and newsy as the city papers, you can safely bet he does not spend any of his wealth in assisting to make it better and that generally the paper has done more for him than he has for it. The man who cannot see the benefits arising from a local newspaper is just about as much value to a town as a delinquent tax list.—Baltic (O.) American.

A KANSAS DRINK

Topoka, Kan., Nov. 11.—Fredrick S. Johnson, attorney general, has given an opinion that druggists who sell Jamaica ginger to be used as a beverage may be prosecuted for a violation of the prohibitory law. Jamaica ginger is about 75 per cent alcohol and since the prohibitory law went into effect the consumption of it has increased.

BADLY JOLTED

As Andy Armstrong and family of north of town were going to church Sunday a bolt of their buggy fell out, dropping them to the ground. They fell with great force and Mr. Armstrong suffered several cuts on the head, Mrs. Armstrong's shoulder was sprained and their son Chester had a badly injured arm. Luckily their horse was gentle and did not run away.

MRS. MARY MOODY PASSES AWAY

Over One Hundred Years Old. Died Monday Nov. 15, 1909

At the residence of her son, S. M. Mayhew, in Forest Park, North Third street, Monett, Mo., at 5 o'clock a. m., November 15, 1909, Mary Moody, aged 100 years and two months. Funeral will be held at the residence on Tuesday, November 16, at 2 o'clock p. m. Interment in the Cox cemetery, 14 miles northwest of Monett. Friends of the family invited.

Mrs. Mary Moody was born in South Carolina, near Charleston, September 14, 1809. She was the oldest of twelve children, nine girls and three boys. The boys names were John, William and Simon Miller.

John was a great worker and exhorter in the Baptist church. William was an able Baptist preacher in Allen County, Kentucky. Of these twelve only herself and one sister survives. Her sister, Mrs. Delly Pruitt, who now lives in Allen county, Kentucky, and is in her 85th year. Her father's name was Samuel Miller, and was a soldier in the War of 1812, going from Allen county, Kentucky, and was in the Battle of New Orleans, January 8, 1815. She well remembered his return home from that war.

Her grandfather on her father's side was born in England, whose name was John Miller, and his mother was born in Ireland. Mary Moody's mother was named Burton before her marriage to Miller, and she was born in Georgia and moved to South Carolina, near Charleston. Later the family moved to Allen county, Kentucky, in 1811. Mary Miller there married Zachariah Mayhew, whose parents came from Virginia to Kentucky, and their ancestors came from England. She was married to Zachariah Mayhew, February 1, 1826, in Allen County, Ky. They raised four sons and one daughter, namely, Nancy Ann, who married Juble Atkerson and moved to Missouri, and lived and died in Lawrence county, just west of Stotts City.

Mary Moody moved after her marriage and the raising of her family in Kentucky to Texas, where they lived 18 months and then moved to Missouri, in Lawrence county, where they lived until the opening of the Civil war, when they moved to Coles county, Ill.

Zachariah Mayhew, her husband died in Coles County, Ill., July 12, 1865. After the civil war she came back to Lawrence county, Missouri, with her son Samuel Mayhew, and on April 21st, 1867, she was married to Isaac Moody, who was the grandfather of Oscar P. Moody, who now owns the old homestead where his grandfather lived for many years. Isaac Moody died April 1, 1877. After this time she made her home with her son, S. M. Mayhew. She had been very active the greater part of her life.

She joined the M. E. church in her 19th year and had been active Christian worker for nearly 82 years. She was a small woman, never weighing to exceed 120 pounds and has been very energetic and of a wonderful constitution.
